Risk mitigation

To ensure your project is successful, you'll need to openly acknowledge, discuss and plan for risks that could derail it. By having an honest conversation about what could cause the project to fail, you'll naturally start to think about how you could restructure the plan to avoid those risks.

What could cause the project to fail?

Think about all the risks that could derail your work: lack of funding, losing a partner, not having a diverse enough group of partners, etc.

How could you mitigate each of those risks identified above?
